COOK-O'BRIEN LOW BIDDERS

KANSAS CITY FIRM GETS PAVING CONTRACTS.

PIPE LINE UNDECIDED

Three Bids Submitted, With Varying Specifications.—Walnut Paving 5 Cents Less Than Last Year.

The Cook-O'Brien Construction Co., a Kansas City firm, again was low bidder when sealed proposals were opened by the City Council this afternoon on five paving projects and the curb and gutter project at the intersection of Fourth and Dunn streets.

There were only two other bidders, the James Stanton Construction Co., of Leavenworth and P. P. Young, St. Joseph.

Bids also were received on 3,500 feet of pipe to be used in the construction of a new line from the city's pumping plant to the city water mains. Late this afternoon, the council had not decided upon awarding of a contract because of a difference in type and specifications of the pipe upon which bids were submitted. There were three bids.

$1.38 for Curb and Gutter.

The Cook-O'Brien bid for 853 lineal feet of reinforced concrete guttering and integral curb, 30 inches wide and 6 inches thick, adjacent to lots 5 and 6, block 1, S. M. Dunn's addition to the City of Maryville, was $1.38 a foot. For the 230 lineal feet of sidewalk included in the same project, the successful bid was 75 cents a foot. The sidewalk is to be four feet wide and four inches thick.

The Stanton Construction Co. bid $1.45 on the curb and gutter and 80 cents on the sidewalk. Young submitted no bid on this project, which the city is to pay for from its own funds.

On the paving of Fifth street from Buchanan to Mulberry, excepting the intersection at Fillmore, the Cook-O'Brien bid was $2.83 a yard for 1,668 square yards of 1-inch reinforced concrete, to be 23 feet, 11 inches wide. For 438 cubic yards of excavation the low bid was 80 cents a yard and for 1,146 lineal feet of 5-inch integral curb the bid was $0.68 a foot

The Young bid on this project was $2.98, 95 cents and 68 cents, while the Stanton company bid $3.05, $1 and 75 cents.

$2.73 Square Yard On Walnut.

For the four projects on Walnut street, the low bid was the same for each: $2.73 per square yard for paving, 80 cent per cubic yard for grading, and 56 cents a lineal foot for curb.

The Stanton bid on these projects was $2.88, $1 and 75 cents, and Cook bid $2.95, $0.95 and $0.68.

The accepted bid for the Walnut street paving is 5 cents less than the price for which the work was done last year. At that time, rolling and finishing was a separate item, which, combined with the cost of surfacing, made the cost of paving $2.78.

The Walnut street paving is in four divisions. The first, from five feet south of the north line of Seventh street to the north line of fourth, is 1,004.5 feet in length and requires 2,318.5 square yards of paving, 756 cubic yards of excavating and grading, and 1,784 feet of curb.

Division No. 2 is from the south line of Fourth street to the south line of First, excepting the intersections at First, Second and Third strets. It is 926 feet in length and there will be 2,082 square yards of paving, 488 cubic yards of excavating and grading, and 1,638 feet of curb.

Division No. 3 extends from the south line of First street to 18 feet south of the north line of Thompson, a distance of 755 feet. It will require 1,693 square yards of paving, 563 cubic yards of excavating and grading and 1,510 feet of curb.

The fourth division begins at the center line of Halasey street and extends to 13 feet south of the north line of Lincoln, a distance of 1,050 feet. The required paving is estimated at 2,413.3 square yards, the excavating and grading at 819 cubic yards and the curb at 1,968 lineal feet.

At Work in Ten Days.

The Cook-O'Brien Co., was represented here by R. E. O'Brien, secretary-treasurer, and by Jack Cannon, engineer who was in charge of the projects here last year. The contract requires that actual construction begin in not less than thirty days after acceptance and continued at the rate of at least 5,000 square yards a month.

Mr. O'Brien said materials would be shipped at once and that work would begin within a week or ten days. With good weather, he expects the work to be completed in sixty days.

The contractor expressed pleasure at the opportunity to return here for more work.

"Maryville is a fine town and we like to work here," O'Brien said.

Settlements Made With Two Collectors

County Court Accepts Books Of Jefferson and Polk Townships.—Little Personal Tax Remaining Delinquent.

Settlement with two more township collectors was made today by the County Court, which accepted the books of Mrs. Gertrude Walsh, collector of Jefferson township, and Emmett Bartram, Polk township.

Mrs. Walsh had total collections of $26,901.82 and delinquent and erroneous taxes amounting to $3,370.89. Less than $20 of personal taxes were delinquent.

With $163,200 on his books, Bartram collected all except $5,887.77. Of this amount $3,838.54 was delinquent real estate taxes and $1,681.20 was the First National Bank tax, held up pending decision on a legal point. The delinquent personal taxes in Polk township total $368.03, most of which is unobtainable now.

MEETING ENDS WITH BANQUET

100 DELEGATES ATTEND AFFAIR AT METHODIST CHURCH.

STATE WORKER TALKS

District Embracing Graham and Bethany Wins Proze For Having Full Quota Present.

Saturday night at a banquet held in the basement of the First M. E. Church, the annual Nodaway County Young Peoples Conference came to a close, having been in session since Friday night. Paschal Monk, songmaster, led more than 100 delegates present in spiritual and serious songs. Donald Goforth was toastmaster.

Toasts were made: "To the Girls," by Vernon Barrett; "To the Boys," by Florine Turner; "To the Leaders," by Harold Lee Yates; "To the Youth," Dr. C. C. James; "All Together for the Kingdom," Katherine Ragsdale.

Walter C. Moore, of St. Louis, state peoples worker, made a thirty minute address on "Your Share in Building the Kingdom at Home." He pointed out that just a few working hard is better than a crowd pulling against each other. He brought out the great example of Gideon and his 300 as a Biblical example.

The final event of the evening was the "Friendship Circle" in which every delegate assembled in a circle about the room, with only the light of two candles in the center of the ring. At this time devotions and decisions were carried out.

The award for having the largest delegation, which was the full quota, went to District 4, in which Graham and Bethany are located. They were presented with $5 by the County Council to be used in carrying out a district conference.

Vernon Barrett of Skidmore gave a constructive talk Saturday afternoon on a program for 1926. The important activities of the young peoples work he suggested were a district conference, promotion of Easter service, joint young peoples meeting, father and son banquet, mother and daughter banquet, white Christmas, creating an interest in denominational and interdenominational camps.

The cream of the afternoon program was a series of talks on "Camp" by four Maryville delegates, who have attended camp at either Lake Geneva, Wis., or Geneva Glen, Colo. From personal experience the speaker brought out the spiritual, physical, mental, social and religious side of camp life.

Miss Roberta Cook discussed the physical side, Harold Braun, the mental, Miss Dorothy England, the social and Miss Ruth Bookman, the religious.

Pledges amounting to over $125 were signed by the various delegations, some being personal and others representative of classes and handed to the newly elected joint treasurer, Miss Evelyn Evans, for support of the young peoples work in the country this year. Other contributions will be made.

Glover and Alexander, coal, feed and ice dealers, today announced the purchase of the ice supply and the delivery routes of Harry Harrison. The Harrison stock consisted of about 2,000 tons of natural ice.

"The purchase will not result in any advance in the price of ice," the purchasing firm assured the public.

Bad Weather Halts Work on Infirmary

County Patients May Get "Home" Thursday.—Insurance Not Enough To Buy Beds.

Bad weather interfered Saturday with the work on the temporary building to serve as an infirmary at the county farm. The building has been completed except for roofing and providing of partitions. E. T. Bailey, presiding judge of the County Court, expects the building to be completed so that the county patients may be returned to the County Farm Thursday.

It was necessary to order new beds, as all those in the old building were destroyed by fire. Twenty-six beds of three-foot width were ordered, which when equipped with springs, mattresses and blankets, will cost the county about $23 each. Since insurance on the building's contents amounted to only $500, the proceeds will not even pay for the beds.

HOPKINS MILL IS DESTROYED

WOLFERS BUILDING BURNS SATURDAY NIGHT.

LOSS ABOUT $20,000

Structure Built About Twenty-Five Years Ago And Formerly Was One Of Best-Known Mills.

The Wolfers flour mill at Hopkins was destroyed by a fire of unknown origin about 8 o'clock Saturday night. The total loss is estimated at approximately $20,000, and is not covered by insurance.

When the fire was first discovered the flames had swept through the mill and were beyond control. The building was razed to the ground and the machinery charred beyond repair.

The structure was built about twenty-seven years ago by O. A. Wolfers and his son, Ed C. They operated it as a flour mill for about a quarter of a century and it was one of the best-known mills in this section of the state. About three years ago the mill ceased operation but the machinery was left in tact.

The mill, a three story structure, was located in the south part of Hopkins. The main room was about forty feet long and thirty-two feet wide and, with the adjoining rooms, the building was perhaps sixty feet long.

The building and machinery were owned by the Wolfers estate. The value of the structure at the time of the fire is estimated at $8,000 and the machinery about $13,000.

Fund of $84.50 Given to George E. Brown

Money Raised By Voluntary Subscription Is Delivered To County Farm.

The money in the George E. Brown fund, which has accumulated at The Democrat-Forum and Tribune without any solicitation, was turned over to Fred W. Smith, county clerk, this morning and Mr. Smith will deliver it to Mr. Brown. The fund amounted to $84.50.

Judge E. T. Bailey, presiding judge of the county court, commended The Democrat-Forum and Tribune for aiding the movement and for obtaining so much for "such a worthy cause." Judge Bailey said Mr. Brown lost several times that amount in the fire which destroyed the County Infirmary. The fact that it was a free will offering, Judge Bailey thought was fine. He expressed the belief that the people are always glad to help out in worth-while causes.

TO DISTRIBUTE EXTRA POWER

NEARBY CITIES TO BENEFIT FROM MUSCLE SHOALS.

INSURGENTS WIN OUT

Party Lines Eliminated In Senate In Final Action Of Disposition Of Vast Power Project.

Washington, March 8.—Vigorously opposed by an administration-Democratic alliance, the progressive bloc won an unexpected victory this afternoon when the Senate voted to distribute all surplus power from the government's 150-million-dollar Muscle Shoals project among the adjoining communities and states.

This program was written into the Coolidge resolution creating a Congressional commission to negotiate a lease for the project, through adoption of an amendment proposed by Senator Caraway, Democrat of Arkansas. It was intended to prevent a monopoly of the Muscle Shoals power output.

The vote was 47 to 31.

Washington, March 8—With the party lines eliminated, the Senate was prepared today for a final vote on the Coolidge resolution creating a Congressional commission to negotiate a private lease of the government's 150-million-dollar Muscle Shoals project.

Although the resolution was certain of adoption, a real fight developed when a progressive group, comprising both Republicans and Democrats, demanded that the commission be authorized to negotiate as many leases as it deems feasible and specifically providing that preference must be given adjoining municipalities and cities in the sale of surplus power.

The administration-Democratic combine is opposed to any instructions except those approved by the House for a single lease along the lines of the original Henry Ford offer but with a time limit of fifty years.

150 Freshmen Enrolled by 3 This Afternoon

Upper Classmen at State Teachers College Will Matriculate Tomorrow. Classes Wednesday.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon 150 freshmen students had registered for the spring quarter at the State Teachers College. Today was set aside for enrollment of freshmen alone, the upper classmen having tomorrow to matriculate.

Unless a large number of students register late this afternoon, the freshmen class will be smaller than in the winter quarter, when 229 students were in it.

There was an assembly at 9 o'clock this morning, at which time many points concerning curriculum and degrees were explained. This afternoon the freshman class was given a tea in the recreation room at the College. The class lunched in a body at the College cafeteria this noon, and tonight will be the guests at "Partners Again," the moving picture showing at the College.

Class work will begin at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning.

Supreme Court Won't Block Entry of U. S.

Taft Says Body Will Not Impede American Adherence To World Court.

Washington, March 8.—The Supreme Court refused today to intervene to block America's entry into the World Court, recently voted by the Senate.

Chief Justice Taft announced that the request by Benjamin Cathings, Washington lawyer, to file a petition requiring Secretary of State Kellogg to refuse to take steps for American adherence to the court, had been overruled.

American Commission May Settle Claims

Citizens of U. S. Will Not Be Required to Take Their Grievances to Mexican Courts.

Washington, March 8.—American investors, who have grievances against Mexico, under the new land and petroleum laws, may not have to resort to Mexican courts to settle their disputes over property rights, it was learned at the state department today.

As a result of recent notes passed between the two governments, a provision was made that American property owners may take their claims before the American-Mexican mixed claims commission rather than to Mexican courts, the department announced.

This is regarded as a distinct advantage to Americans who feel their interests might be jeopardized in Mexican courts.

FRANCE STILL SEEKS LEADER

POLITICAL SITUATION CONTINUES BECLOUDED.

BRIAND DISHEARTENED

Continues In Office While President Doumergue Combs Country For "Man Of The Hour."

Paris, March 8.—The French political situation was still beclouded tonight after President Doumergue had spent a busy day in conference with the leaders of the various parties and factions.

M. Lamoureur, reporter of the finance commission of the Chamber, announced today he has advised President Doumergue to invite M. Briand to re-form a cabinet. There is considerable doubt whether Briand would be willing.

The president summoned the leaders of the finance commissions of both the Senate and Chamber to get their views on a man who could offer a financial project, possible of acceptance.

Paris, March 8.—President Doumergue, arriving from Lyons this morning, settled down in earnest to the finding of a new premier.

Shortly after his arrival, the president conferred with M. Briand, who has continued as premier ad interim. Briand, it is understood, is thoroughly disheartened.

The only progress made over the week end was the growing conviction in political circles that dissolution of the chamber and the ensuing general election would merely bring in some new phases with substantially the same grouping of political strength.

Motorists Must Not Desert Their Victims

St. Louis, March 8.—Motorists, who speed away from the scene of a fatal accident, will face a first degree murder charge, according to an announcement by Coroner Vitt here today. They will be held without bond, pending a coroner's inquest, Vitt said.

Farm Assessments to Be Decreased in 1926

Town Property Values Increased For Taxation Purposes.—More Than Four Billion Total Assessment

Jefferson City, March 8.—Real estate and personal property in Missouri on which taxpayers will be assessed this year totals $4,040,899,089 in assessors' returns to the state tax commission here today.

This figure is $48,000,000 more than the total allowed by the state board of equalization for 1925. Of the total sum on which assessment will be levied for 1926, real estate, including all farm lands, represents $3,371,827,345. This is an increase of $54,000,000 over the figure fixed for last year by the board of equalization.

The increase in real estate values is based entirely on an increase in town property as the value of farm lands is decreased for taxation purposes.

A commander of Battery C will be chosen at a meeting of members of the military unit tonight in order to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Kyle P. Phares, who has been commander of the organization for some time. Mr. Phares resigned several weeks ago.

LEAGUE WOULD WELCOME U. S.

AMERICA HAS PLACE AWAITING HER, PRESIDENT SAYS.

MARKING TIME NOW

Awaits Settlement of French Cabinet Crisis—Meeting This Afternoon Is Purely Formal.

Geneva, March 8.—Although threatened with internal dissention, the League of Nations assembly this afternoon made a new bid to the United States to join that body.

"The United States has a place awaiting her here," declared Alfonso Costu of Portugal, the newly-elected president of the assembly in his inaugural speech.

Geneva, March 8.—Facing the most important test of its career, the League of Nations is today marking time pending settlement of the French cabinet crisis. Disputes over the proposed enlargement of the League Council cannot be settled until France has a government.

The meeting of the League this afternoon is expected to be purely formal.

Germany declines to enter the League until the Council question is settled and demands that she be the only new nation admitted to the Council. France insists upon Spain and perhaps one other nation being given a seat and her delegates are not willing to rescind from this position until they have the backing of a government.

Spain threatens to quit the League entirely if her requests for a seat in the Council is rejected.

Sweden is bitterly opposing the expansion of the Council. Latin American countries are reported ready to follow Spain if she quits the League.

Geneva, March 8.—Both Locarno and the League of Nations, with the hopes of mankind they embody, stand imperiled, for Europe's leading statesmen separated without reaching an accord on the conditions under which Germany would enter the League of Nations.

These statesmen have gathered in Geneva to attend the meeting of the league assembly and council, opening today, the chief business of which is to consider Germany's entry and the possible enlargement of the council. No agreement was reached on the problem of the reconstruction of the council created by the demand of various nations for permanent seats; Germany was inflexible in refusing to accept any binding obligations in advance as to what it would do when it was elected to the council.

Spain Threatens Withdrawal.

France and Great Britain, particularly France, presented an argument to admit Spain to a permanent seat and all the more insistently as the Spanish delegation had announced during the day that if Spain were not elected to a permanent place concurrently with Germany it would resign its league membership.

M. Briand, the retiring French premier, Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign secretary, Count Skrzynski of Poland, and an imposing Spanish delegation all arrived at an early hour from Paris. They hardly had time to discover their hotel rooms before there was launched an almost frenzied series of conversations and consultations. Speed was deemed a great essential because M. Briand announced that he was returning to Paris last night to confer with President Doumergue in an effort to solve the French ministerial crisis.

The German chancellor, Dr. Luther, and the foreign minister, Stressmann, who arrived here last evening, confronted the gloomy morning almost gaily. It was soon evident from the declaration of the German spokesmen that the developments in the situation, notably the French political crisis, had induced a stiffening of the German attitude and insistence by Germany that it alone should enter the council by virtue of the law of Locarno.

THE ONLY DAILY PAPER IN NODAWAY COUNTY

A TERRIBLE PERSECUTION.

Pity a poor bootleg king. "Mannie" Kessler, famous "Bootleg King of Broadway," released from the federal penitentiary at Atlanta after serving out a two-year sentence for violating the prohibition law, finds that the worst is yet to come. Not content with this heartless incarceration, the government has arrested him again on a charge of fraudulent income tax returns.

Bootleggers, it should be remembered, pay income taxes on their business just like any other business men. Or at least they are supposed to. The government encourages them in this righteous division of spoils, holding their income reports as confidential as those of any class of citizens. The Treasury Department takes their confession and money and says nothing about it to the Department of Justice. Uncle Sam's right hand graciously refuses to take cognizance of what his left hand is doing.

So it comes about that the government demands a larger share in "Mannie's" bootleg profits for the years preceding his term in the penitentiary. His income for 1920, 1921, and 1922, the federal investigators declare, was $7,000,000 more than his tax return showed. They want him now to pay more than $1,500,000 in back taxes.

Surely this is cruel and unusual punishment, such as no royal bootlegger should be obliged to endure under our constitutional guarantees. Every member of the honorable and popular bootlegging fraternity will rise up and call this persecution rather than prosecution. It's come to a fine pass when the government demands such a shameless proportion of a gentlemanly bootlegger's loot. If this sort of thing goes on, the bootleggers may simply stop making income tax returns altogether, and mighe even refuse to continue in business.

Being a bootlegger is dangerous. You are liable to shoot somebody and then you might get arrested.

Everything has to creep before it walks. Except, perhaps, butter—and it runs right away.

Coal's so high. Every time we go below to fire the furnace we think we are in the depths of despair.

Sheriff and State Police.

The functions of sheriffs and their deputies are substantially the same in most states. The exceptions are in the comparatively few states that have established state constabularies, which take over the police duties and leave to the sheriff's office the court duties for which it primarily was created. The Missouri Association for Criminal Justice recommends a constabulary for this state. The association, which is rendering excellent service in its review of conditions and agencies affecting crime and the enforcement of criminal law, reviews the inherent weakness of the sheriff system. The most serious weaknesses are these:

The election instead of appointment of sheriffs; officers in all other police establishments are appointed.

The fee system, which is calculated to make increase in compensation an undue incentive and service a secondary consideration.

The lack of crime records, especially in relation to the circumstances attending and immediately following the commission of crime, which lack greatly hampers prosecutors.

The combination of civil and police duties, which impairs service in both directions, but especially as to law enforcement.

A state constabulary for Missouri was recommended by Governor Hyde in 1923 but no action was taken by the legislature. The matter has been discussed informally in later sessions. Some opposition always has attended such discussion. It is believed, however, that such opposition grows less with the extension of the highway system, the increased travel and the facilities that good roads and motor cars afford those engaging in crime. The more urgent need of protection may be expected to remove in some measure whatever objections lie against the state police idea.

Whatever the ultimate employment of state police may be, it would seem most desirable to provide them for the primary roads, where they are most needed. Such provisions would serve two purposes: It would meet the most urgent demands for the time being and it would serve as an experiment on which there might be expansion, if that should prove desirable. A constabulary, of course should be under the control of a superintendent or board appointed by the governor. It would be better if immediate control were made bipartisan.—Kansas City Times.

BLASPHEMY TRIALS.

Here is the way the Massachusetts blasphemy trial looks to Kansas, as set forth in an editorial by William Allen White in his Emporia Gazette:

"The Commonwealth of Massachusetts, that cradle of our liberties, now has a man on trial for saying, in the course of a speech, that he did not believe in God. In the light of our constitution, which mentions religion only once when, in the first article, it guarantees religious freedom, this trial is absurd.

"The United States is not a legally Christian nation in spite of the fact that a majority of its people are members of Christian sects, any more than it is officially a Republican nation because a majority of the people voted for Coolidge.

"The fundamental idea behind the Bill of Rights which is the most precious part of our Constitution, is that it guarantees the right of minorities to express views differing from the views of the majority. To arrest a man for saying that he does not believe in God is just as silly, and just as unconstitutional as it would be to arrest a man for saying he does not believe in Coolidge."

That sounds like good sense in a lot of other states, too.

If a church wants to try a member for blasphemy or heresy, that is all right. Membership in any institution implies living up to the rules. But what would we say if a church were to try a member for treason? We would say, undoubtedly, that treason is a political offense, and solely the affair of the state. If the state can interfere in purely religious matters like this, what becomes of our religious freedom and separation of church and state?

Perhaps 99 per cent of us don't want to hear anybody deny God. But does that make it any of the state's business?

Besides, if God is the all-powerful Being we think Him, maybe He doesn't need to have His power and dignity upheld by our petty human laws and courts.

Tolles Clothing Co. Here One Year Last Saturday

The Tolles Clothing Company opened its store in Maryville one year ago last Saturday. To celebrate the anniversary and in appreciation of the good business enjoyed the company advertised some unusual bargains for last Friday and Saturday, but because of the bad weather and roads over the week-end, the reduced prices will prevail all this week. Announcement from day to day this week give still greater inducements.

The special prices are being made on the entire new Spring stock. By operating our chain of stores we have made it possible for the people of Maryville and the surrounding territory to buy clothing and men's furnishings cheaper than they ever bought it before. This year being fully established, we are in a position to give you more money value and we would like to have every man, young man and woman in this county visit our store before Saturday night. "Pa" Coolidge Silent On Son John's Defeat

President Has No Comment to Make Following Encounter at Amherst —Mother is Amused

By Charles P. Stewart
NEA Service Writer

Washington—President Coolidge always is sore when his son John breaks into the newspapers.

He doesn't want him to get an exaggerated idea of his own importance.

Furthermore, he doesn't like to have any member of the Coolidge family made to look ridiculous. That's what those write-ups of John's three-round mill at Amherst, in which he acquired a black eye and lost the decision on points, did, to some extent.

So it's safe to say the presidential temper was upset when its owner read accounts of the fight.

He grumpily refused to discuss it when correspondents asked him to.

Maybe he believes in boxing, as exercise, for his son, but there's a pretty well authenticated report that he's written to him to do it strictly in private after this.

Another thing, the White House has received about a cord of letters protesting against the president's son's participant in such "brutal sport."

That it was brutal, the writers say, is proved by the black eye.

Of course this mail doesn't get as far as the president but he knows it's pouring in. It was to have been expected, too—such a chance for people who consider it wrong for two men to get together and "beat each other up!"

Mrs. Coolidge read the fight stories in bed—of the grip.

Her friends quote her as saying she was "amused but would have been more so if John had won."

WILL PROTECT NEW HIGHWAYS

AUTO CLUB DELEGATES WILL MEET IN WASHINGTON.

TO DISCUSS PROBLEMS

Session to Be Held in Capital March 25 —To Plan Methods to Improve Touring Conditions.

Washington, March 8. (Unitep Press).—A "national motor congress," with delegates representing 775 organized automobile clubs in every part of the country, will convene here March 25 to draft a program to protect motorists in the use of highways and to improve touring conditions.

"The congress will take up every practical question in which the motorists of the country are vitally interested," Thomas P. Henry, president of the American Automobile Association said in calling the conclave. "This year will be the greatest touring period in history and motorists are in a better position than ever before to carry out a conservative program."

Just how an automobilist should act in a road-side court and his legal rights before such a tribunal will be discussed by the delegates. Legislation to abolish "speed traps" will be urged.

"These pestiferious institutions—the speed trap and roadside court—have preyed particularly on visiting and touring motorists," Henry said. "This would promptly stop if every community would realize that every instance of this kind is driving business from the community."

Out-of-town motorists should be treated courteously by officers, and should they break a local ordinance unintentionally, be reprimanded but not fined, Henry said.

Emergency service for tourists who have engine, tire or other trouble on the highways will also be discussed at the congress. It is planned to extend co-operation of automobile clubs in extending service to stranded motorists.

SENATE WETS STRIKE SNAG

COMMITTEE MAY REFUSE SERIES OF PUBLIC HEARINGS.

BROOKHART BILL UP

Agriculture Committee Gives Agriculture Measure Right-of-Way. Would Create Marketing Commission.

Washington, March 8.—The drive of the Senate wets for modification of the prohibition law struck a snag in the Senate today when the judiciary committee failed to reach a decision upon their request for a series of public hearings on proposed wet legislation.

Although three anti-prohibition leaders, Senators Edge, Republican of New Jersey, Edwards, Democrat of New Jersey, and Bruce, Democrat of Maryland, plan for a public investigation of the present prohibition situation.

The committee adjourned without taking a vote but indications point to a repection of the request. The committee will meet again later in the week.

Washington, March 8.—The Senate agricultural committee today gave the right-of-way over all other farm relief legislation to the Brookhart 250-million-dollar surplus marketing bill. The bill would carry out the recommendations of the representatives of eleven Middle Western agriculture states.

Supreme Court Judge Is 85 Years Old Today

Washington, March 8.—Oliver Wendell Holmes, oldest and perhaps the most active justice on the U. S. supreme court bench today observes his 85th birthday.

Holmes is the only member of the court, who doesn't have a secretary. He is his own secretary. While his associates on the bench are slouched deep down in their chairs, this white-haired man with a drooping white moustache sits erect and takes notes on every case brought before the court.

He frequently interrupts attorneys in their arguments, and his questions strike at the heart of the question involved. He writes more opinions than any of his associates. His opinions are short, concise and clear.

For 24 years he has been on the supreme court bench. Clerks of the court say he is as alert and active now as when he began. His supply of energy seems inexhaustible.

Divorce Is Granted Every 8 Minutes

K. C. Kan., Court Also Sets Record for Disposition of Default Cases— Judge Justifies Actions.

Kansas City, Kan., March 8 (United Press).—A divorce every 8 minutes.

That is the rate divorces were ground out in the divorce mill presided over by C. A. Miller, judge of the fourth division of the district court here the other morning.

It also set a record for speedy disposal of default divorce cases in domestic relations court. Eight cases, all without alimony, were rapidly granted after a brief presentation of the cases.

In giving reasons for such speedy dispositions of the cases Judge Miller justified his actions, saying:

"When there are no children and the case is not contested and there isn't any hope in evidence that differences may be ironed out there is no use in dragging the matter along."

HC 31 Maryville Missouri Monday Nov 23 Orchestra

The YELLOW STUB by Ernest Lynn

COPYRIGHT 1926 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

HENRY RAND, 55, a business man, is found murdered in a cheap hotel in Grafton. Police find a woman's handkerchief and the stub of a yellow theater ticket.

JANET RAND, his daughter, breaks her engagement with BARRY COLVIN, because of the "disgrace." JIMMY RAND, his son, goes to Springfield where the theater is. The stub is traced to THOMAS FOGARTY, a political boss, who says he gave it to OLGA MAYNARD, a cabaret singer.

Jimmy meets and falls in love with MARY LOWELL. Later he encounters Olga. She faints when she learns police want her for murder. Mary, out with SAMUEL CHURCH, a wealthy lawyer, sees Jimmy lifting Olga into a taxi and misunderstands.

Olga tells police the stub might have come into possession of a man who "picked her up" two nights before the murder. Jimmy receives mysterious warnings to leave Springfield and later is attacked at night by two men, but escapes.

With Jimmy and Mary estranged, Church gets Mary's promise to marry him. Mary tells Jimmy this when they meet and he, trying to hurt her, accuses her of marrying for money.

That evening Jimmy and Olga see, in an auto, a man they both recognize—she as the man who got the stub, he as one of his attackers. The man and his companion escape. Later they identify him by his police picture as IKE JENSEN.

Church, out driving with Mary runs over a dog. His heartlessness kindles hatred in her heart and she breaks her engagement.

LIEUTENANT O'DAY, a police friend of Jimmy's, invites the latter to dinner. There he tells him of a boyhood romance between Henry Rand and a girl named MARIE REAL, that resulted in a break between Henry and his father, Thaddeus Rand, and in Henry's leaving home.

Jimmy goes home to his room to find Barry Colvin. Barry has with him a ring that belonged to Henry Rand.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXIV.

Jimmy took the ring from Barry's hand and examined it.

"You say it belonged to dad?" He frowned.

"Janet gave it to me to show you. She ran across it when she went through some papers he had in the safety deposit vault in the bank."

Jimmy frowned. "Just a plain signet ring. I guess it was dad's, all right. Here are his initials, H. R. But I never saw it before, Barry. He never wore it."

"There's something on the inside, Jim. Maybe that's why.

Jimmy shot him a peculiar look, then examined the ring again.

His face went very white. "From Marie to Harry," he said slowly, reading the inscription inside the ring. "September 25, 1898. September 25 was my father's birthday, Barry."

He glanced up at Barry. "What did Janet say? Does Mother know about it?"

"Janet said your mother knew nothing about it. You see, Jim, the ring was given to your dad after his marriage. That's why Janet didn't want your mother to know."

"Barry, you once asked me if there could have been another woman in dad's life."

"I'm sorry, Jim." Barry reddened.

"There was. I know who this Marie was. Her name was Marie Real. I've just heard about her. It was a boyhood romance. Listen."

He sank down on the bed and, with the ring in his hand, he told Barry Colvin the whole story, just as O'Day had told it to him. . . . . .

"What a pity!" commented Barry when Jimmy was through. "And so they did see each other again, after all—this Marie Real and your father."

"We can only guess. The ring would make it appear so. . . . . Barry, did you ever hear of a concert or stage singer named Marie Real? It would have to be some time back, for she'd be nearly fifty-five years old now."

Barry shook his head.

"Of course," Jimmy went on, "we don't know whether they met accidentally years after they had both left Durbin, or whether they were in communication with each other all along."

"Probably the first, Jim. You see, your dad married someone else."

"Oh well, they both might have decided they made a mistake."

Barry shrugged. "I confess it's got me guessing. . . . . Do you think it's linked up in any way with the murder?"

Jimmy threw up his hands in a despairing gesture. "Lord knows. . . . I can't see how."

"But if this Marie Real is still living, and we can find her, it might help."

"I'll turn the ring over to Detective Mooney, Barry. Maybe he can do something."

"Of course, she might have had another name, a profession name. It might be possible to trace her through some of the theatrical agencies in New York."

Jimmy was pacing the floor. He stopped. "Is that why you came here, Barry? To show me this ring?"

"Not entirely. I've got some business here. . . . . And there's another reason, Jim. Janet wants you to come home. There was another letter."

"You mean—"

Another one of those unsigned warnings. It's got her pretty scared."

"What did this one say? Did you bring it?"

"No; I gave it to Mooney. It simply said there wouldn't be any more warnings—that you had had your last chance."

"Good! I'm glad there won't be any more." Jimmy laughed, but a trifle nervously.

"Jim, it's got you worried. I'm worried myself."

"Well, to be truthful with you, it's not exactly a pleasant sensation to know I'm being watched like this. . . . . Oh well! . . . . . By the way, I saw the man that Olga Maynard went out with that night—the man she said might have got the stub and the handkerchief. He was one of the men who tried to waylay me that night that I wrote you about."

He told Barry the details.

"It might be," Barry said, "that this Ike Jensen is the one who is writing the notes."

"Or somebody he knows," supplemented Jimmy. "There's more than one man mixed up in this, Jensen. If he's still in town, isn't taking any chances being seen mailing letters. He's lying low, Barry—for two reasons. In the first place, there was that mixup with me. And then he saw Olga with me and saw Olga recognize him. Lord knows what he thought when he saw us together, but he must have a suspicion that she's told me about the handkerchief.

"I don't think he knows anything about the ticket stub, Barry. I think that fell out of his pocket and he didn't see it. At any rate, it's sufficient to make him hide. . . . . I'll bet he's worried sick, wondering how much I know."

"Yes, and how you came to know Olga Maynard."

"What does Mooney think about it? About those letters I've been getting?"

"Well, Mooney, of course, thought he was going to find this H. A. Jones person in Grafton. But he's pretty sure, he says, that these threats against you are all mixed up in some way with the murder. He thinks you ought to leave town and go home. Says if you don't he's going to frame some kind of charge against you and come after you with a warrant. He's worried about you."

Jimmy laughed. "Mooney's a man of direct action—and of originality. No, Barry, I'm not going home until the puzzle is unraveled. . . . . You see, as long as I stay here I seem to be a source of irritation to someone who evidently knows a lot about the murder. If I go home, they may never find him. But if I stay the chances are this person will get a little over anxious and make a slip. Then we'll get him."

"If you insist on staying," remarked Barry drily, "someone's likely to use you for a target practice. Or perhaps a knife between the ribs." He went through the pantomime of a dagger thrust.

"That's a little far-fetched, Barry."

"No it isn't; not by a long shot," the other persisted doggedly. "If you won't come home, then I'm going to stay here a while and be your bodyguard."

"How long shall you be in town?"

"Oh, a few days. Then I'll have to run back to Grafton for a day. Then I'm coming back here and inflict myself on you. Unless, of course, you listen to reason."

"Good. Make yourself at home. You can share this room with me. If you like, I'll have Mrs. King put in twin beds."

"It's not necessary, as far as I'm concerned."

"Not for me. The old army took a lot of finicky notions out of our heads, didn't it? By the way, while you're here I want you to meet this Olga Maynard. Maybe after you see her you'll agree with me that she's all right now."

Barry was silent.

"Old doubting Thomas, eh?" Jimmy laughed. . . . .

"Give me a cigaret, Barry," Jimmy said a few minutes later. He shivered. "Lord, I as nervous as an old woman."

"I should think you would be," said Barry, lighting the cigaret for him. "A sensible person would clear out and go home."

"It's this feeling of being constantly watched, Barry. It's not the threats. I think they are a schoolboy trick. . . . . But to be haunted by the feeling that every move of mine is known to this—this someone, whoever it is."

He clasped and unclasped his hands nervously. "If only he would come out in the open. . . . . Barry, have you ever read about any of these vendetta murders?" He forced a smile. "I feel as I imagine a man who has been marked as a vendetta victim must feel. . . . Not exactly, you understand. . . . It isn't fear actually—"

"It's a plain case of nerves, Jim" Barry laid his hand on the other's shoulder. "Come home and take a rest, before you go to pieces. Maybe that's just what these people are trying to do—make you a nervous wreck."

"Oh, probably I exaggerate my feelings. It's not that bad. I get presentiments, you know. . . . . The night I was followed home and I had that mixup with Jensen, something kept telling me that I was being followed. . . . . And tonight—"

He paused. "Tonight, on the short walk from the street care here, I kept imagining the same thing."

"Oh, Jim, go to bed. You need sleep, that's all."

"I suppose so. No reason to think anybody was following me tonight. There's a policeman detailed to do nothing but patrol this block since that other night."

Barry yawned. "I'm ready for the hay myself." He got to his feet and stretched. "By the way, Jim, are you a polar bear or something?"

"What do you mean?"

"Well, when I came in the room, the window was open. It was cold as the devil. It's raw outside."

"That's funny." Jimmy stroked his chin thoughtfully. "It wasn't open when I left. Maybe Mrs. King came in to clean and wanted to air the room. Unusual, though, for her to clean at night."

He laughed. "Maybe it's spooks, Barry. Better—"

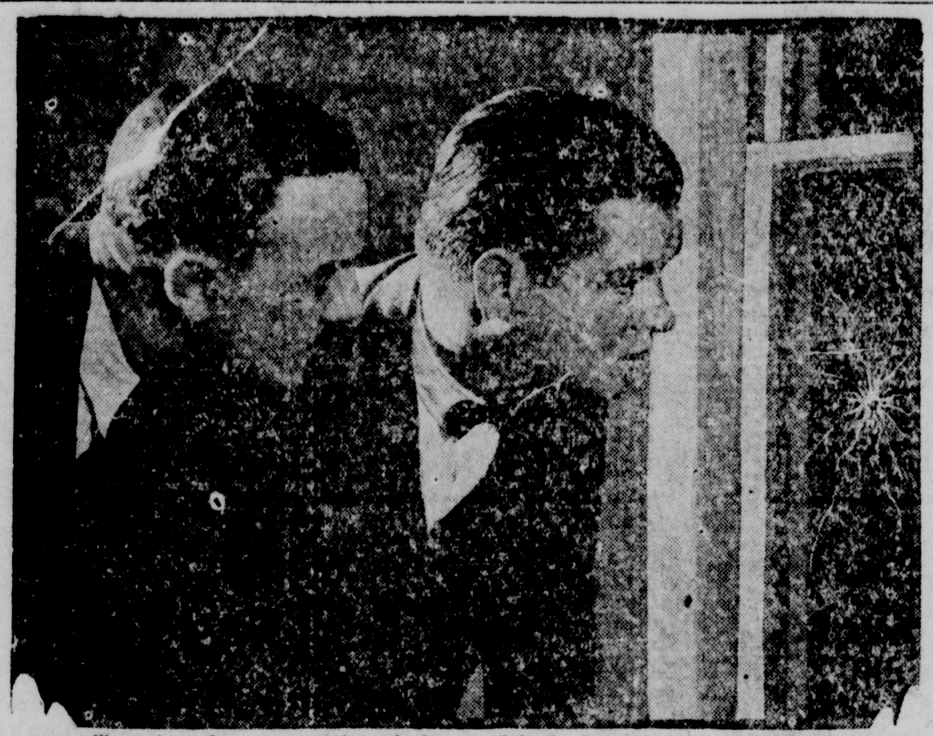
His voice was drowned out in the sudden sharp roar of sound that followed—a crashing pistol shot, and then the tinkling of breaking glass. The bullet sang past Jimmy's head and buried itself in the wall over the head of the bed.

Jimmy dropped to the floor. "My God!" gasped Barry, "are you hit, Jim?"

"No. Get down, that's all. Quick! Get down on the floor."

But there was no need. The sound of scuffling feet came from the porch, onto which the window opened. There was a dead silence for a space, and then the two of them, white of face and stunned, ran to the window together and looked out into the night.

(To Be Continued).



Together they ran to the window and looked out into the night.

Gasoline and Wheat

No other two commodities have a more intimate bearing on the affairs of man than gasoline and wheat.

A brief study of their price relationship will prove interesting.

The Monthly Crop and Market Bulletin of the United States Department of Agriculture shows us that the average farm price for wheat in 1913 was $.784 per bushel.

During the same year, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) average Chicago tank wagon price for gasoline was $.14837.

These figures show that in 1913 one bushel of wheat would buy 5.28 gallons of gasoline.

In 1925, the average farm price for wheat was $1.50118 per bushel.

And, Standard Oil Company (Indiana) average Chicago tank wagon price for gasoline was $.17276 per gallon.

Which, expressed in terms of commodity, means that in 1925 one bushel of wheat would buy 8.69 gallons of gasoline—or 64% more than it would purchase in 1913.

In other words, while the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) average Chicago tank wagon price for gasoline advanced 16.4% in twelve years, the average farm price for wheat increased 91%.

Factors which no man can control enter into the business of supplying the nation with food and with gasoline.

Inclement weather can ruin crops and influence prices. A dry well can waste enormous sums of money, which the petroleum industry must absorb.

The flow of crude, like the yield of wheat, fluctuates with conditions nature sets and which no man can control.

Yet the farmer and the oil man are able, within certain limits, to overcome these opposing forces.

Irrigation and "dry" farming have increased enormously the yield of grain in many localities.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana), by developing its famous cracking processes, has been able to double the yield of gasoline from a barrel of crude.

The farmer and the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) have had to meet increasing costs of production. The price of everything has gone up during the last twelve years.

The fact that the price of gasoline has advanced less than that of almost any other basic commodity is a tribute to intensive specialization in a highly organized industry.

The net result of Standard Oil Company (Indiana) efficiency in keeping down costs and selling prices, is reflected accurately in the affairs of every man, woman and child in the ten Middle Western states served by this Company.

FARM GLIMPSES

BY BILLY TILSON.

Orva Mays, who has been living on the W. L. Bagley farm northeast of Maryville, is moving to the Joe Thompson farm, northwest of Barnard. Mr. Bagley is moving to his farm this year.

Alfred Frampton, northeast of Ravenwood, had a closing out sale Thursday and will move to Laclede, Mo., having traded his farm in this county for one in that county.

V. A. Hunt, northwest of Ravenwood, is busy these days looking after his fine brood sows which have begun to farrow. He is building portable hog-houses to take care of them and has two already completed. Mr. Hunt has a fine bunch of ewes and several of them have young lambs by their side. He also has a fine bunch of short yearlings that he is feeding and they will average around 700 lbs. at the present time and after looking over the amount of stock on the farm our conclusion was that Mr. Hunt's time was about all taken up looking after them.

Dorsey Treese is moving from the S. P. Ross farm, northwest of Ravenwood, and Byd West is taking possession, having leased it for the year.

Mr. McFarland of Forest City has moved to the Albert Carr farm, south of Harmony. Frank Fanning, who has been living on it for several years, has moved to the W. H. Goforth farm, northeast of Barnard.

Six loads of stock were shipped from Ravenwood this week to the St. Joseph market. The shippers were Tom Kerwin, William Woodburn, D. H. Phillips and Grantham and son.

Tom Kerwin, the large farmer and stock raiser and feeder, northeast of Ravenwood, has 122 twelve-hundred-pound cattle in his feed lot, which have been on feed for 120 days. He also has three loads of hogs in the feed lots. He says last year was a very profitable year on the farm for him and says things are shaping for a better condition in the farming line.

Joe Smith is having his hay baled on his farm, southwest of Ravenwood, and is shipping it to the market, realizing around $15 per ton for it. J. W. Moss and son are doing the baling.

S. P. Ross, who runs a large general merchandise store at Ravenwood and also raises fine hogs and cattle on his farm northwest of that city, was transacting business in the city yesterday.

Nick Helzer and wife and Clifford Helzer and wife, west of Barnard, were shopping among the merchants of Maryville yesterday.

Otto Burns and family, southeast of Barnard, were Maryville visitors yesterday.

H. E. Horton and wife, west of Ravenwood, were shopping in Maryville yesterday and also visiting Mrs. Horton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Pettigrew.

J. F. Hackett, Frank Cole, Gerald Boyer and Wes Miller from south of Burlington Junction, were transacting business in the city yesterday.

Ed Sexton and son, northeast of Barnard, were looking after business interests in Maryville yesterday.

Pat O'Donnell, west of Conception Junction, was a Maryville visitor yesterday. Pat says the farmers are anxious for spring to open up.

Ed Allen, northwest of Conception Junction, was in Maryville yesterday looking after business interests and doing some buying among the merchants. Mr. Allen is an extensive farmer and stock raiser and says he looks for a good year among the farmers.

Harve Cline, east of Pickering, has a fine bunch of young lambs. Harve also has some fine brood sows that are beginning to litter and says with the price of hogs where they are now, it pays to look after them.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, March 8.—Grain prices closed lower on the Chicago Board of Trade today.

The wheat market was an erratic affair. At the opening this grain advanced and during the session gained from 1¼ to 11-2 cents over Saturday's level but later all advances were lost, the grain closing at nearly 2 cents below Saturday's final figures. The recessions were not due to any domestic or international news concerning the wheat market. It was believed local traders were merely evening up pending the government report on the farm reserve to be issued tomorrow. The visible wheat supply had decreased at the close today and was bullish. Liverpool, opening weak, closed from 1 to 1 1-2 above Saturday's closing level.

Corn closed nearly 2¼ cents under Saturday's final figures in some future deliveries. Receipts in corn were fair which, to some extent, accounted for the bearish figures in this grain.

Oats also closed fractionally under Saturday's closing level. Heavy receipts together with the traders disposition to await the government report, combined to make the dip in the oats pit.

Provisions closed lower in lieu of heavy hog receipts.

Who Is Your Skinny Friend, Ethel?

Tell him to take Cod Liver Oil for a couple of months and get enough good healthy flesh on his bones to look like a real man.

Tell him, it's the only way to take those grave-like hollows from his cheeks and neck.

Tell him he won't have to swallow the nasty oil with the nauseating fishy taste because the McCoy Laboratories of New York, are now putting up Cod Liver Oil in sugar coated tablet form.

Ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets, Gaugh & Evans and every druggist sells them—60 tablets—60 cents. Any man or woman can put on five pounds of healthy flesh in 30 days or your druggist is authorized to refund the purchase price.

One woman put on 15 pounds in six weeks. Children grow robust and strong—Feeble old people feel younger in a few weeks.

Be sure and get McCoy's, the original and genuine and avoid imitations. —Adv.

BEARCATS, 29 SCHOOLEYS, 17

LOCALS TRIM KANSAS CITY TEAM SATURDAY NIGHT.

POOR CROWD AT GAME

Paul Burks Injured—Lawrence's Team Superior In All Departments Of Game.

The State Teachers College Bearcats won from the Schooleys of Kansas City here Saturday night in basketball, 29 to 17. The game was the last home appearance of Coach Lawrence's quintet. The crowd which witnessed the game numbered about 300 persons.

The Bearcats were superior in all departments of the game. They were the first to score, and had totaled 9 points before the Kansas City team was able to connect with the basket. The half ended with the score 17 to 6.

Paul Burks, Maryville forward, was injured shortly before the end of the first half when a Schooley elbow found a resting place in the small of his back. He was unable to continue in the game. Blomfield, Bearcat guard, was taken out of the game in the first half with an injured arch, but returned at the beginning of the second half.

The game was not sensational. Hedges, who was substituted for Burks, led the Maryville scoring with 6 points. Duvall, substitute forward, was the only visitor who seemed able to locate the basket. He made 10 of his team's points.

Those who have seen the Schooleys play before this season say that they were "off." The same may be said of the locals. They did not display the dazzling brand of basketball which has shown itself in several home games this year.

Thirty-Nine Teams Now Entered in Cage Tournament to Be Held Here This Week

Thirty-nine entries have been received from high schools of Northwest Missouri for the annual basketball tournament to be held at the State Teachers College on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. This is a record number according to M. E. Selecman, director of information at the College, who is manager of the tournament. Last year there were thirty-five entries.

It is possible that there may be other entries. None will be accepted, however, if they bear a postmark of later than last Saturday.

There will be two classes in the tournament. The sixteen schools with the largest enrollment will be in Class A, and the others will be in Class B.

Maryville High School was one of the last to enter a team. Coach Herbert entered Captain Kissinger, McKee, Swinford, Locke, Petty, McMurry, and Tindall as his seven players.

The sixteen teams which likely will be in Class A are: Maryville, Chillicothe, Skidmore, Burlington Junction, Stanberry, Maysville, Hopkins, Hale, Bethany, King City, Grant City, Oregon, Cameron, Savannah, Hamilton, and Rock Port.

Teams which likely will be in Class B are: Rosendale, Hatfield, Barnard, Parnell, Westboro, Conception Junction, Darlington, Altamont, Worth, New Point, Ravenwood, Maitland, Harmony, Gower, Mound City, Faucett, Fairfax, Forest City, Pickering, Sheridan, New Hampton, Fillmore and Holt.

No St. Joseph team is entered. It was thought that perhaps Lafayette High School, runner-up in the St. Joseph city tournament, would enter, but such was not the case.

Rosendale High School will perhaps have an opportunity to seek vengeance over the Maryville team. These two quintets are in different classes, and if both are successful, will meet in the finals for the grand championship Saturday night.

The winner of the tournament here will represent Northwest Missouri at the State tourney to be held in Columbia the week-end following.

Will Make Plans for State Cage Tournament

Eight Teams To Compete For Title In Columbia.—Winner May Go To Chicago.

Following the meeting of the newly organized State Athletic Association in Columbia this week, the athletic department of the University of Missouri will start intensive preparations for the annual state high school championship basketball tournament to be held there March 19 and 20 under the auspices of the university.

The plan of the tournament as was worked out at the organization of the new association in St. Louis last month is that eight teams will go to Columbia for the finals. Each of the eight teams will be the winners of their respective sections of the state.

District tournaments are to be held at each of the five state Teachers colleges and the winners will automatically become eligible to enter the finals at Columbia.

In addition to the five teams that will enter the Columbia tournament as a result of their winning the district tournaments, the championship teams of Kansas City, St. Joseph and St. Louis will compete, forming eight teams that will play a two-day tournament to decide the championship high school team of the state.

In the recent meeting of the new state association, it was decided that every high school team that had won 50 per cent of its games up to the last week in February would be eligible to compete in the district tournaments and then the winners of each division would be sent to Columbia with all expenses paid by the district.

It is estimated that over 1,000 high schools had teams this year in the state and that more than 500 will take part in the district meets.

A. A. Stagg, athletic director at the University of Chicago, has notified Missouri University officials that the winning team at the Columbia tournament will be invited to enter the national high school basketball tournament that is held every April under the auspices of the University of Chicago.

EIGHT TEAMS ENTERED

Victory Carries With It Northwest Missouri Title, There Being No Girls' Tourney Here.

The Bouncing Betties of Parnell High School won the tournament held at Albany High School last Friday and Saturday. The final game Saturday night was between Parnell and Albany, and the score was 23 to 12.

A silver loving cup bearing the title, "Northwest Missouri Champions," was given to the Parnell team. There will be no district tournament held at the State Teachers College this year, and Albany announced that the tournament there would replace the one usually held here.

Eight teams were entered in the tournament, which started at 7 o'clock Friday night. There were four preliminary games that night. Pattonsburg won from Princeton, 22 to 15; Parnell defeated Easton, 13 to 6; Chillicothe won from Rosendale, 37 to 24; and Albany won from Maysville.

Two games were played in the semi finals, which started at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Parnell won from Pattonsburg, 16 to 14; and Albany eliminated Chillicothe, 24 to 14.

As a curtain raiser to the final game Saturday night, the Albany boys won from the Pattonsburg boys in a fast game.

The championship team is made up of P. Jones and Cox, forwards; Prather and Surplus, centers; and Hall and K. Jones, guards.

Cohen of St. Joseph refereed the tournament.
